ABOUT ME

Information

I am a Full-Stack Web Developer with a strong specialization in front-end programming. I am passionate about learning new technologies and thrive in team-oriented environments. In addition to crafting dynamic and responsive user interfaces, I have hands-on experience with Debian-based operating systems, including server management, configuration, Apache setup, and deploying new servers for web projects. My background includes working on largescale projects involving databases with over 50 million records and handling traffic exceeding 8,000 requests per second.

Communication and Interpersonal Skills

- Front-End & UI/UX Expertise: Proven ability to design and implement responsive, user-friendly interfaces that enhance overall user experience.
- Full-Stack Development & API Integration: Skilled in both client-side and server-side programming, with effective communication and collaboration across cross-functional teams to develop and integrate robust APIs.
- Scalability & Performance Optimization: Experience in managing high-traffic systems and large databases, ensuring efficient performance under heavy loads.
- Server Management & Security: Proficient in Debian-based systems and Apache configuration, with a strong focus on implementing security measures to safeguard web applications.
